Celebrate 40 years with the PETERBOROUGH CENTENNIAL MUSEUM & ARCHIVES

October 28, 1967, was a day of note in Peterborough; the Peterborough Centennial Museum first opened its doors! This modern museum facility was built as a community centennial project.

The Peterborough Centennial Museum & Archives is celebrating its 40th anniversary with an open house on Sunday, October 28, 2007 from 2 to 4 pm.

There will be guided behind-the-scenes tours, special exhibits from the vast PCMA artifact and archival collections, activities for children and an opportunity to meet the PCMA team.

As a special feature, architects Michael Lundholm and Bill Lett will be available to share the design and plan for the proposed PCMA expansion.

All are welcome to attend and to celebrate the Peterborough Centennial Museum & Archives 40th Anniversary– a true community museum!

The Peterborough Centennial Museum & Archives is located on top of Armour Hill on Museum Drive, Hunter Street East, Peterborough, Ontario.

Admission is by donation and the museum is open weekdays: 9 am to 5 pm, and weekends & holidays: noon to 5 pm. The PCMA offers barrier-free access, scenic picnic facilities and plenty of free parking.
